

Bloomberg

Pursuits | Golf

The Most Exciting New Golf Courses to Play in 2025

Around the world, links are coming that'll be worth getting on a plane for

The second hole at Loraloma. Source: Loraloma

Loraloma in Texas

Loraloma will be David McLay Kidd's first course in Texas. His emphasis has been on the land's contours, utilizing the Hill Country's terrain to create a golf course rooted in the region's character. The private course is part of a new private residential community in Austin that will feature views of the Pedernales River and dramatic elevation changes, including shots over 100-foot ravines. Opening in fall 2025.